Update on Integration Planning with Nano Dimension

Hello Team DM,

Last week, key members of the Desktop Metal leadership team began a series of meetings with key leaders of the Nano Dimension leadership team to begin an orderly integration planning process that will take place over many months as we approach closing of this combination.

The meetings were held in Boston and led by the Integration Executives appointed from the two companies – Tom Nogueira, Chief Operating Officer of DM, and Zivi Nedivi, President of Nano Dimension.

At the onset of the kickoff meeting, Zivi clearly stated that he wants to come to the closing table on Day One of the combined company with a comprehensive plan in place.

The meetings are being facilitated by Integration Leader Ben Lazarus, a partner at PwC Advisory, with significant experience in M&A Integration projects, as well as 3D printing. He outlined a focused process that will require thoughtful analysis to arrive at the proper conclusions given the complexity of the integration effort.

We will be giving you periodic updates to provide as much transparency as possible. We would like to provide the following highlights of what we can share to date:

- An orderly business process for planning to combine the companies has been kicked off and is now underway
- Investments for integration and post-integration activities are being planned
- The goal of the integration is to combine the business in a way which seeks to balance the following objectives:
  - o Driving towards positive cash flow and profitability
  - o Creating a platform for growth
  - o Minimizing disruption and protecting the core assets of both businesses, which are being defined
- While we need the vast majority of Team DM employees to remain 100% focused on meeting our current business objectives, a few select people will be included on task forces for certain topic areas where decision-making needs will be defined and eventually made. Those people will receive additional details and training on protocol for information sharing and integration planning that comport with antitrust and other regulatory requirements.

To be clear, until closing, Desktop Metal and Nano will remain separate companies and will continue to operate independently of one another, at arm's length, just as before we announced the transaction.

We know it can be distracting to have this process underway, and we kindly ask you to stay focused on your near-term objectives. If you have feedback you'd like to provide the integration teams, you may send it through this form.

Thank you for the continued efforts and have a great weekend,

Tom Nogueira
Chief Operating Officer
Desktop Metal
