Nothing New: 3D Systems Announcement Only Repeats Already Rejected Inadequate Offer

Stratasys Issues Investor Presentation Highlighting Serious Challenges With 3D Systems and its Inadequate Offer

MINNEAPOLIS & REHOVOT, Israel—September 14, 2023 – Stratasys Ltd. (Nasdaq: SSYS) (“Stratasys” or the “Company”), a leader in polymer 3D printing solutions, today issued the following statement in response to a press release issued by 3D Systems Corporation (NYSE: DDD) (“3D Systems”) on September 13, 2023.

The proposal referenced in 3D Systems’ press release on September 13 did not revise the terms, or change any substantial details, of the revised proposal made by 3D Systems on September 6. The Stratasys Board of Directors previously reviewed 3D Systems’ September 6 revised proposal and unanimously determined that the revised proposal, which is 35% lower than the value implied by 3D Systems’ July 13 proposal and comprises consideration with a nominal value of only $15.26 per Stratasys ordinary share as of September 11, 2023, continues to significantly undervalue Stratasys and does not constitute a “Superior Proposal” as defined in Stratasys’ merger agreement with Desktop Metal, Inc. (NYSE: DM) (“Desktop Metal”). The merger agreement filed by 3D Systems on September 13 is in substantially the same form as it shared with the Stratasys Board on September 6, as 3D Systems itself admits. The Stratasys Board’s response to 3D Systems’ September 6 revised proposal remains unchanged.

3D Systems’ press release yesterday contained a number of false and misleading statements:

- Contrary to statements by Dr. Jeffrey Graves, 3D Systems’ President and CEO, that the Stratasys Board was “only interested in the appearance of engagement to appease shareholders,” Stratasys conducted a thorough due diligence process spanning two months with hundreds of hours invested by Stratasys’ Board, management and advisors. As previously disclosed, Stratasys communicated its concerns regarding 3D Systems’ July 13 proposal on August 22, including based on the findings of its extensive due diligence review. 3D Systems’ September 6 proposal, which it reiterated yesterday, did not sufficiently address those concerns and, for reasons previously disclosed, the Stratasys Board unanimously determined that it did not constitute a Superior Proposal as defined in Stratasys’ merger agreement with Desktop Metal.
 - 3D Systems’ claims that the Stratasys Board is entrenched are again contrary to fact. As we stated in our September 12 press release, Stratasys was very clear with 3D Systems that we were not concerned about the specific composition of a combined company’s board despite Stratasys shareholders’ large ownership, but Stratasys did insist on an appropriate management structure to ensure that the benefits of the combination would be achieved. 3D Systems was unable to address this concern or provide any detail on its plans to ensure that the combined company would have a best-in-class management team. Entrenchment? Perhaps. But not by Stratasys.

It is not surprising that 3D Systems continues to pursue an opportunistic acquisition of Stratasys that is larger than its own market cap, revenues and profits, given 3D Systems' significantly sub-par business metrics, deteriorating standalone business outlook and its debt-repayment horizon. Indeed, we believe 3D Systems' press release on July 27, setting a target date of August 4 to enter into a transaction with Stratasys, was intended to pressure Stratasys to limit its diligence process and enter into a deal before 3D Systems' underperformance became public on August 9 with its disappointing second quarter earnings report and downward revisions to its guidance. We believe the gap between our companies' market caps, revenues and profits will continue to widen over the next few quarters. It has become clear that 3D Systems – in light of its low margin business portfolio, mismanagement resulting in quarter after quarter of misses, and the deterioration of its business at an accelerating rate given recent customer developments – has no option but to tie itself to a stronger business. Nano Dimension had the same goal, and our shareholders knew better.

Stratasys also filed an investor presentation today reiterating the key reasons for the Stratasys Board's unanimous rejection of 3D Systems' September 6 proposal. The investor presentation is available at investors.stratasys.com.

As announced on May 25, 2023, Stratasys entered into a merger agreement with Desktop Metal (the "Desktop Metal Merger Agreement"), pursuant to which Desktop Metal agreed to combine with Stratasys in an all-stock transaction. The Stratasys Board reaffirms its unanimous approval, recommendation and declaration of advisability of the transaction with Desktop Metal.

Stratasys will hold an Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders (the "Meeting") on Thursday, September 28, 2023, at 3:00 p.m. Israel time/ 8:00 a.m. Eastern time. The record date for shareholders entitled to vote at the Meeting was Thursday, August 24, 2023. The agenda for the Meeting includes, among other things, approval of certain matters to be effected in connection with the Desktop Metal Merger Agreement.

The Stratasys Board of Directors strongly encourages shareholders to vote "FOR" the Stratasys Merger-related proposal at the Stratasys EGM, and to thereby enable the value-enhancing Merger with Desktop Metal.

Whether or not you attend the Meeting, your vote is important. We urge you to participate and vote, regardless of the number of ordinary shares you own.

Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures

This communication contains certain forward-looking non-GAAP measures, which are based on internal forecasts and represent management's best judgment. Reconciliation of such measures to the most directly comparable GAAP financial measures cannot be furnished without unreasonable efforts due to inherent difficulty in forecasting the amount and timing of certain adjustments that are necessary for such reconciliations and which may significantly impact our GAAP results. In particular, sufficient information is not available to calculate certain adjustments that are required to prepare a forward-looking statement of revenue, margin and EBITDA in accordance with GAAP for fiscal years 2024 and beyond. Stratasys also believes that such reconciliations would also imply a degree of precision that would be confusing or inappropriate for these forward-looking measures, which are inherently uncertain. All revenue, margin, EBITDA and other P&L references are non-GAAP unless specified otherwise.
